

A special committee of the Camden N. J. board of health appointed to investigate the condition of Thomas Butler's burial-ground for colored people, in rear of Evergreen Cemetery, found that bodies were buried eight-to twelve and one foot deep, and the stretch of decomposing flesh makes the place a nuisance and breeds disease.