

A Plucky Fireman.

While Engine No. 4, of the Camden Fire Department, was answering an alarm caused by a blazing tar pot in Morris & Mathis' ship yard, Cooper's Point, yesterday, the horses ran away. Driver Edward Hartman, who was standing on the ground, caught one of the traces, and although dragged some distance and kicked by the animals he managed to climb to the back of one and soon had them under control. His lip was cut and one leg badly lacerated. During the excitement a little girl fell in front of the engine, but Fireman Walter Browning rescued her. The loss by the fire was trifling.
